WOOD OF THE MONTH - Iroko

IROKO (Chlorophora excelsa or Milicia regia)

ORIGIN: TROPICAL AFRICA

Iroko is very durable and is resistant to both rot and insect attack; it's sometimes used as a substitute for Teak. Iroko is used in boatbuilding, piling and marine work, decks, flooring, furniture, veneer, railroad crossties, cabinetwork, shop fittings and joinery. Janka scale hardness is 1260 for dry material.
